

LINA SAUD

lhs43@scarletmail.rutgers.edu

(609) 712-0988

Rutgers University, 629 Tillett Hall, 53 Avenue E, Piscataway, New Jersey 08854

EDUCATION

Rutgers University

Ph.D., Social Psychology

Advisor: Laurie Rudman, Ph.D.

September 2016—

New Brunswick, NJ

Princeton University

B.A., Woodrow Wilson School of Public Policy and International Affairs

June 2015

Princeton, NJ

Senior Independent Work: “Friend or Foe? Americans’ Stereotypes of Muslims”

Advisor: Dr. Susan T. Fiske

AWARDS

Undergraduate Fund for Academic Conferences Award, Princeton University

2015

Office of the Dean of the College Thesis Funding Award, Princeton University

2014

MANUSCRIPTS IN PROGRESS

Saud, L. H., & Fiske, S. T. (manuscript in preparation). Do Americans Differentiate among Subtypes of Muslims? A Study on Stereotype Content.

TALKS

Saud, L. H. (2016, July). Teasing Apart Stereotypes: Understanding the Nuances of Group Perceptions with a Case Study of Americans’ Stereotypes of Muslims. University of Connecticut, SPSSI- & EASP-Sponsored Small Group Meeting on Understanding Hate Crimes: Multidisciplinary Analyses, Storrs, CT.

Saud, L. H. (2015, March). Americans’ Stereotypes of Muslims. Michigan State University, Muslim Mental Health Conference, Dearborn, MI.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Princeton University Psychology Department

Shelton Lab (PI: J. Nicole Shelton)

Princeton, NJ

October 2015 – June 2016

Lab Manager: Research on the dynamics of interracial friendships and the effects of prejudice on college students' mental health outcomes. Designing a study on minorities' emotional and behavioral outcomes after stereotype confirmation.

Princeton University Psychology Department

Fiske & Shelton Labs (PIs: Susan T. Fiske & J. Nicole Shelton)

Princeton, NJ
June - September 2015

Research Assistant: Coded verbal and nonverbal behaviors for video-based study run by graduate student Jillian Swencionis. Conducted in-depth literature review on the nature of interracial friendships, taking from the literature on friendship generally, interracial interactions, and interracial friendships.

United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD)

Internship Program (Supervisor: Mahmoud Elkhafif)

Geneva, Switzerland
August - September 2014

Research Intern: Research on barriers to economic growth and effective trade facilitation in nations in the Middle East. Produced comprehensive research paper examining the benefits of better incorporation of women in the workforce in the Middle East, the barriers to this incorporation, and recommendations moving forward.

Princeton University, Woodrow Wilson School of Public & International Affairs

Innovations for Successful Societies, ISS (Director: Jennifer Widner)

Princeton, NJ
June - July 2014

Research Intern: Research on cases of failed governance and cases of strengthened government structures that created an effective balance of power. Focus on Tunisia's government transition following the 2011 revolution.

SERVICE

United Way Campaign, Princeton University

Psychology Department & Neuroscience Institute Representative

Princeton, NJ
Fall 2015 - Present

Princeton University Task Force on Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Policy Working Group Member

Princeton, NJ
Spring 2015

Princeton Model United Nations (PMUNC)

Chair

East Brunswick, NJ
2011 - 2014

Undergraduate Student Government, Projects Board

Board Member

Princeton, NJ
January 2012 - January 2015

Muslim Students Association

Vice President, Public Relations Chair

Princeton, NJ
January 2012 - January 2014

Muslim-Jewish Dialogue and Muslim-Christian Dialogue

Student Leader

Princeton, NJ
2012 - 2014

SPECIALIZED RESEARCH SKILLS

- Data collection methods: Qualtrics, Amazon Mechanical Turk
- Data analysis packages: SPSS, R
- Manuscript preparation: Microsoft Office (Word, Powerpoint, Excel)
- Languages: Arabic (fluent in reading, writing & speaking)